FROM THE PRESIDENT

Terry Reed

And we are off. Here we are beginning another IWPA season.

I have seen on TV and read that during the Pandemic more people than usual got dogs. I also have heard that when the country began to open up the Animal Shelters and rescues were overwhelmed with dogs being surrendered.

Before or after events we can encourage dog owners to give pulling a try. Amateur events could be done to try and generate interest.

This could present a great opportunity for IWPA. By being good ambassadors of the sport we can reach out and attempt to show new dog owners an activity for their dogs.

This has potential to be a great situation all around. Not only could we see an increase in membership, dogs could be saved from being sent to shelters and rescues.

Use your imagination. I'm sure there are other ideas you may have along these lines.

Enjoy the new season and keep it fun for all.

Terry Reed
IWPA President

Together we can build a better IWPA

FROM THE DESK OF YOUR STATISTICIAN

Jean Wilson

In an effort to do my job for you as accurately as possible, please be sure your dog's name is documented the same for all events. (e.g. Holley vs. Holly) If your dog's name is spelled incorrectly for any events submitted, the event organizer will need to contact me to have a correction made. This is critical so that you don't have a dog with 2 sets of points, potentially making you miss out on medals, working dog degrees or even a Championship invitation.

Keep in mind, it's my job to document the statistics as they are presented to me by your organizers, so I can't just arbitrarily make changes. Also, be sure to watch your event results during the season and contact your event organizer if you see anything in question so they can contact me as soon as possible if a correction needs to be made.

Now, let's go out there and have a great pulling season with our dogs and friends!

Jean Wilson
IWPA Statistician

FDA Issues Important Warning to Maker of 12 Dog Food Brands

Image: KWTU Channel 9 Oklahoma City

August 17, 2021 — The U.S. Food and Drug Administration issued a formal warning to Midwestern Pet Foods, Inc., maker of 12 pet food brands and sub-brands, after inspections of manufacturing plants revealed serious violations.

The FDA claims conditions at the firm's facilities likely contributed to the illness or death of hundreds of dogs and cats.

What Caused the FDA's Action?

According to the FDA...

“Analysis of these subsequent samples found that additional SPORTMiX branded products, spanning multiple products and lot codes, contained aflatoxin at levels as high as 558 ppb. FDA considers that aflatoxin levels in dog and cat food above 20 ppb will support a charge of adulteration... because of the reasonable possibility that a regular diet of such food will be fatal or injurious to the health of the pet. Therefore, these pet food products manufactured in your OK facility are adulterated in that they bear or contain a poisonous or deleterious substance which renders them injurious to health.”

Editor — Aflatoxin levels were nearly 28 times the safe upper limit of 20 parts per billion (ppb) established by the FDA.

More Safety Violations

The FDA's official warning to Midwestern Pet Foods contained multiple instances of critical safety violations... too many to detail in this short article.

So, for greater detail...

Be sure to read the official FDA Warning letter (<https://www.fda.gov/inspections-compliance-enforcement-and-criminal-investigations/warning-letters/midwestern-pet-food-613845-08092021>) issued to Midwestern Pet Foods.

Midwestern Pet Foods Brands

The following is a list of brands and sub-brands known to be manufactured by Midwestern Pet Foods. And any one of them (at any time) can be suddenly affected by changes to these FDA findings:

- CanineX
- Earthborn Holistic
- Meridian
- Nunn Better
- Pro Pac
- Pro Pac Ultimates
- Splash
- Sportmix
- Sportmix Wholesomes
- Sportstrail
- Unrefined
- Venture

Midwestern Pet Foods Recall History

The following list includes all dog food recalls since 2016 related to Midwestern Pet Foods.

- Midwestern Pet Foods Recalls Multiple Dog and Cat Food Brands (3/28/2021)
- Deadly Dog and Cat Food Recall Expands: More Brands, Over 1000 Lots (1/12/2021)
- Sportmix Dog and Cat Foods Recalled Due to Deadly Mold Toxin (12/30/2020)

What to Do?

As of this date...

No additional recalls related to this FDA warning have been reported.

However...

Please keep in mind just how unpredictable a dangerous and deadly dog food recall can be.

So...

Before purchasing ANY dog food, be sure to check The Dog Food Advisor's Best Dog Foods pages.

That's because anytime we determine a particular manufacturer has become a high risk, repeat offender... their products are immediately removed from our Best Dog Foods page.

Our Very Best Advice

Since there's no such thing as a perfect dog food...

And because built-in flaws tend to be magnified when the same food is fed endlessly... day after day for a lifetime.

You may wish to consider diet rotation when feeding your pet.

Most importantly...

Stay informed.

About Vitamin D Toxicity in Dogs

Dogs ingesting elevated levels of Vitamin D may exhibit symptoms such as vomiting, loss of appetite, increased thirst, increased urination, excessive drooling, and weight loss.

Vitamin D when consumed at very high levels or over a long period of time can lead to serious health issues in dogs... including kidney failure and death.

Consumers who have dogs that have consumed any of the products listed above and are exhibiting these symptoms, should contact their veterinarian.

What Caused the Recall?

The recall was initiated after a routine nutrition test confirmed elevated Vitamin D levels on certain Simply Nourish frozen food products.

Subsequent investigation indicates the problem arose as a result of the vitamin mix dosage being significantly reduced by the vitamin mix manufacturer, and this change was not detected or properly communicated.

As a result, the dosage was not reduced.

What to Do?

7 Surprising Autumn Dangers for Dogs

Adapted from dogingtonpost.com by Sheryl Franklin

The dog days of summer are hopefully behind us, and cooler weather is moving in. The leaves will soon be changing, sweaters are being pulled out of storage, and our dogs are more eager than ever to get outside and play!

For many dog owners, fall is the most wonderful time of the year – perfect for heading outdoors and enjoying life with dogs. But autumn brings with it some hidden dangers, potential problems, and a few sources of stress for our four-legged family.

1. Shorter Days and Longer Nights!

In the shorter days and longer nights of autumn, it's not uncommon for many dogs to get their daily walks after the sun's already set. Though relaxing, nighttime walks introduce a whole set of dangers that are not present in the daylight. With reduced visibility, it's more important than ever to be diligent in monitoring your dog closely to be sure he hasn't found a potentially dangerous "roadside snack" to nibble on. Stay safe at night by carrying a flashlight along during walks.

It's also important that your dog be visible to other people, animals, and oncoming cars when outside after dark. Consider using a reflective collar, an LED collar light, or a safety vest whenever you're outdoors at night.

2. There's a Fungus Among Us!

This time of year, fallen leaves piled beneath trees or raked into cool, damp piles create the perfect environment for wild mushrooms to grow. While not all species of the fungi are toxic, it's very difficult to identify and distinguish those that are. As a rule of thumb, keep your dogs away from any and all wildly growing mushrooms.

And take a moment each day, before letting your dog outside into the backyard or before heading out for your walk, to check your yard for wild mushrooms and remove and dispose of them. Mushrooms can sprout up overnight, so it's important to check daily. While you're checking, pick up any fallen fruits, especially apples, plum, or apricots which contain toxic seeds, and any tree nuts that may have fallen to the ground.

3. Fleas Reach Their Peak in the Fall!

Many dog owners mistakenly believe that fleas begin to die off as cooler weather approaches. Truth is that fall is actually the peak season for fleas! Only sustained cold (temperatures consistently reaching in the 30's or lower) will kill off fleas. Because dog owners tend to back off or reduce their flea prevention this time of year while at the same time spending more time outdoors, flea infestations (and the itchy skin and allergies they bring with them) are more common in the fall than in the spring or summer.

4. Sweater Weather Means Mothballs!

Don't you just love sweater weather? Just be sure to take extra precautions when unpacking your cold weather clothes, making sure mothballs are properly stored and safely out of the reach of pets. Mothballs contain a high concentration of the insecticides naphthalene, paradichlorobenzebe (PDB), or camphor – all of which are toxic to dogs. If ingested, mothballs can cause anemia, vomiting, lethargy, and liver or kidney damage. They also pose a choking or intestinal blockage hazard if swallowed or chewed.

Because even a single mothball can be deadly, you may want to consider alternatives. To keep moths away, cedar balls, chips, or blocks can be used in place of mothballs in drawers, or a simple sachet of lavender not only smells lovely but repels the fiber-snacking pests naturally.

5. Keep Away From Antifreeze!

It only takes a few innocent licks of that sweet smelling goo on the neighbor's driveway to kill a small to medium sized dog. Be very, very careful when walking your dog to be certain he stays well out of reach of antifreeze. And prevent him from drinking from puddles or streams where antifreeze may have runoff.

6. A Cornucopia of Dangerous Fall Foods!

One of our favorite things about fall and the upcoming holidays is the cornucopia of tasty sweets and treats so common this time of year. Unfortunately, many of the foods we enjoy in autumn are dangerous for our dogs. Everyone (hopefully) knows to avoid chocolate, onions, and sugar-free sweets, but some lesser-known foods can be equally – or more – dangerous.

Steer clear of grapes and raisins which contain an unknown toxin that can lead to kidney failure. Avoid high-fat foods, like turkey skin and dark meat, ham, and gravy, which can lead to a painful and lifelong condition known as pancreatitis.

The day after Thanksgiving is the busiest day of the year for veterinarians diagnosing pancreatitis in dogs. Though some nuts are safe, it's best to avoid them all in favor of foods more species appropriate for your dog. Though it can be hard to resist those puppy dog eyes begging for a bite of your holiday meal, do your dog a favor and offer them a special dog-safe treat instead.

7. Ragweed, Pollen, and Mold – Oh My!

The same seasonal allergies that bother many people can also affect our dogs. Ragweed, pollen, mold, dust, and grasses can all lead to itching, scratching, rubbing, watery eyes, runny noses, and ear infections in our furriest family members. When dealing with seasonal allergies, a good offense is the best defense!

Regular baths with a gentle dog shampoo can both rinse away allergens and soothe itchy skin. Keeping paws clean, either by wiping them every time your dog comes inside or with a paw washing station at the backdoor, can prevent allergens from being tracked around the house and onto bedding.
